The world without people would not be called the world, for it is around people that life revolves. A slice of this life, the student life, is represented by this production - Our Panther. Not only must this yearbook be a history of the past year for the students, but it must also be so constructed that it may inform any reader of the events of our school.

It can, indeed, be called a memory book, for facts, talents, accomplishments, and defeats of the students take on a new light as they are now recorded in the record of time. This publication becomes a source of learning for two groups: the reader and the worker. The reader reviews the events of the year, and the worker gains knowledge and experience through planning, producing, and selling his product - the yearbook.

The fifty-two piece band with its high stepping rhythm added much to a very successful football season. At the U. of M. Band Day, always a highlight of the year, they participated at halftime with 190 other bands. The Tecumseh Band Festival completed a busy fall marching season.

After settling down to work the band presented a Winter Concert. At the District Band Festival, the band received a II rating. Six members were chosen for All-County Band, and the entire band took part in the program.

The entire band program participated in the Spring Concert. Taking a day off, the band visited the famous Conn factory and the Artley Flute factory in Elkhart, Indiana.

The Band Banquet was enjoyed by all members with an excellent speaker and the presentation of awards.

The final marching spree consisted of a parade during Michigan Week to escort the visiting mayor through town and the Memorial Day Parade at Manitou Beach. The last performance was music for graduation.

1962 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Addison	21	Quincy	7
Addison	6	Camden-Frontier	7
Addison	20	Onsted	18
Addison	25	Clinton	0
Addison	33	Morenci	0
Addison	19	Hudson	26
Addison	24	Brooklyn	6
Addison	21	Pittsford	6

With only 10 lettermen back and only 25 boys out for early practice, it looked like a losing season even to some of the most ardent followers.

These 25 players proved their will to play football and posted their best season since 1920. The turning point in the season came during the Onsted game. Trailing Onsted 18-0 at the start of the 3rd period, the Panthers suddenly came alive. With strong passing of Junior quarterback, Steve Bowman, and fine catches of Duane Kohlenberger and Bob Sroufe, and stalwart play of Addison forward wall; the Panthers pulled a 20-18 win out of the fire. After this stunning upset; successive wins over Clinton, the first homecoming victory in 5 years, and Morenci set the stage for the LCAA championship game at Hudson. The Panthers were trailing 20-0 at half time, but the team never gave up and came back fighting only to fall short of victory 26-19.

As a result of this season, Addison finished second in the LCAA with a 3-1 mark and an over-all record of 6 wins against 2 losses. Addison out scored its opponents 169-70, for an average of 21.1 points per game to 8.7 points per game for the opposition. In 4th quarter play the Panthers were even stronger out scoring their opponents 72-0. Denny Halliwill led the Panthers scoring with 10 touchdowns. Bob Sroufe and Duane Kohlenberger led the team in tackles.

Spirit, enthusiasm, and fine coaching were evident throughout the season as the Panthers never gave up and came back fighting usually finding their reward in victory.

The teams and the fans fought for LCAA Championship before a capacity crowd in the Hudson game.

The Panthers ended its first undefeated season with a 17-0 record. They won no less than championships, were the top Lenawee county offensive (69.3) and defensive (40.9) team, placed three players on the ALL-LCAA first team and consistently placed high in the weekly state ratings.

The leading scorers were Duane Kohlenberger (21.7), Lorin Sanderson (13.9), and Bob Sroufe (11.5). Sanderson was the areas' top rebounder getting 19 a game. Fine ball-handling of Steve Bowman and Larry Applegate plus reliable bench strength in Ron Bayes and Garry Applegate made this Panther team one of the top in the state.

During Christmas vacation the Panthers play in the Hillsdale High School Christmas tournament. Addison took on Pittsford and won hands down 72-27. Then they defeated Litchfield 68-35. Addison climaxed the tournament by defeating Hillsdale 63-51. Duane Kohlenberger led Panther scorers in the tournament with a total of 56 points in the three games.

The Panthers stepped upon the tournament trail carrying credentials, of 17 wins and no losses in one hand and a 5th in the State Ratings in the other. Confidently the team entered the Districts and encountered little difficulty in defeating Onsted and Sand Creek. Never winning a Regional, the Panthers swept through the tournament soundly defeating Summerfield, Royal Oak St. Mary's and Dexter. The Panther's dreams of a State Championship were shattered, however, as they were defeated by New Buffalo in the Quarterfinals, just three games away from the coveted Championship. New Buffalo went on to win the Class "C" Tournament.

Here Are the Activities

A Big Parade

Started Homecoming Celebrations

Homecoming Day was everything one could ask for, warm, bright, and exciting. The parade began on schedule led by the snappy Addison High School Band. The Queen Candidates: Vicki Cobb, Mary Hardy, and Cheryl Lee followed in a white convertible driven by George Sipel. The Princess Candidates: Cheroyl Shoop, Pat Marr, and Pamela Burke were escorted by Jim Bergland. Next in line, driven by Don Miller, were the cheerleaders reflecting the spirit of the day with lively shouts of praise and encouragement.

The floats, representing weeks of planning and many mischievous tricks, were pulled into line and proudly displayed by their respective classes. Seniors (center left) winner of the Senior Division depicted a Clinton Indian in bondage with Addison Panthers circling round and round. The Junior float (lower left) "Total Victory" which was very well done, illustrated an adding machine adding up more and more points for Addison. The Sophomore float "Whale of a Victory," (lower left) portraying a white, flower-covered whale devouring the plumage of a Clinton Redskin, proved its point in the game results.

In the Junior Division, the Freshman float (center) placed first. "Sail on Boys" depicted a large sailboat with the Addison "A" boldly enscribed on the sail. Then the "Top Cats" of the 8th Grade glistened as it passed followed by the 7th Grade "Beats All" whacking toward victory.

Homecoming Royalty

QUEEN VICKI

The Queen's Court make up of three princesses from grades 7, 8, 9 and three queen candidates from grades 10, 11, and 12 are chosen by their classmates to represent them. The senior division candidate is then selected as Homecoming Queen in a general election by the entire student body.

This year's court consisted of Cheryl Lee, sophomore; Mary Hardy, junior, Vicki Cobb, senior; Cheroyl Shoop, ninth grade; Pat Marr, eighth grade; and Pamela Burke, seventh grade.

The Sixth Annual Science Fair boasted 93 entries. Although no biology was taught this year the science department and students can be proud of this fair.

It was divided into two grade divisions, the Jr. High, 7-9, and Sr. High, 10-12. The major classifications were biological and physical sciences.

Eight deserving entries were picked for the highest honors.

Again this year, Addison High School participated in the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair in Ann Arbor by sending Bruce Harper, Cheryl Shepard, Elizabeth Baker, and Sharon Brower to exhibit their projects.

Amelie's family in Germany

Amelie Selke

A Valuable Experience for Addison Students Was Provided by an Exchange Program

Amelie Selke was our exchange student for this year. She was born in Greifswald, East Germany. After the war her family escaped to West Germany settling in Holzminden. She had all her schooling there. Amelie was chosen by the Youth for Understanding Program to visit America for one year. Her parents for that year were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doolittle.

We all enjoyed the experience of having a German girl in our school and were amazed at her ability to speak English so fluently. Amy, as we affectionately called her, adjusted very quickly to our school and family life, and was well liked by all. Many clubs and organizations of the school contributed to a fund to help send her with a group of students to visit the United Nations in New York which proved our desire to help to give her a greater understanding of us.

Amelie's American home and her American family for the year.

ERICK SMITH, Valedictorian

"Take the World as it is, but Leave it Better." We Seniors graduating tonight have a much different world to take than did our parents a generation ago. With new methods of transportation and communication and the centralizing of our population in cities across the map, we are much more in touch with others, not only in our nation but in all the world. With this closer association, comes pressure for conformity. The ideal of rugged individualism in early America has been changed to the ideal of togetherness. Pressures are great for individuals to be like everyone else. Keeping up with the Jones often means that it is not just making as much money as they do - but dressing, talking, living, and even thinking like they do.

Society pressures us more and more to conform to its pattern. In exchange for conformity it offers us a sense of security in belonging. But just how secure is the ordinary man of our society? No one who is dependent on anything outside himself - on money, power, or other people - is truly secure. Only he who possesses himself and is content with himself is secure. Sometimes this kind of security is called personal integrity. Ralph Waldo Emerson put it in the familiar lines, "To thine own self be true, and it will follow as the day the night - Thou can not then be false to any man."

The world which we have to take is already set patterns of living that we must become a part of. Most of us will work with different groups. I am not saying that a certain amount of conformity to the standards of these groups is wrong. Past Generations have helped make the world as it is - and while there is much we wish to change - we acknowledge our debt to the wisdom and labor of all who have lived before us who built as they saw best, with high hopes, just as our hopes are high.

Yes, we take the world as it is with appreciation - but how shall we leave it better for generations to come? We should strive to leave a world with which we are satisfied and which is up to our own standards. This is not to say that we should be selfish, and try to attain only our own personal goals, We must try to make a society where each person has a chance to lead his own life, and be reasonably satisfied with it. Our nation was built on the principle that the individual was of the utmost importance, and in order not to lose this principle we must come out and show that we still put a value on individualism. Of course, everyone talks of being an individual, but in being an individual, we must remember that a nihilistic type of person, one who has no love for himself or for society, is not what is needed. This is the type of person who shows individualism only for the sake of being different. There are many things we can strive for, many things which can be made better because of our work. Rules and regulations of past generations along with their ideas and ways of living, may have been fine in their time, but many of these surviving ideals may now be obsolete, and we may be able to find better ones. We should not be afraid to try to change what we can make better. When we leave here tonight, and go out on our own, we are going to find many things we disagree with. It is up to us to be responsible, good citizens and try to change these disagreeable things for the betterment of men. Every place that we leave our little mark, every place that we make an improvement will be evidence that we are achieving our goal. Only by being true to ourselves can we find the security and happiness every man needs deep within himself. Take the World as it is, but leave it better should guide us to become a responsible individual, so we can improve the world for the generation after us, the one to whom we will leave it.

BRUCE HARPER, Salutatorian

Three years and nine months ago there was an assembly in this very building. Sixty-seven Freshmen filed in and took seats in the back of the room.

Since that day in September of 1959, tremendous changes have taken place - the world over. A great new school building has been added to the gymnasium, our state has changed governors twice and adopted a fine, new constitution, our nation has changed presidents, Latin American governments have risen and fallen, and our country has orbited three men around this terrestrial sphere.

In the face of all these changes, we, the Class of 1963, have not been dormant. We, too, have changed; physically, mentally, emotionally, and socially.

We came in scared, wide-eyed, kids, and now after a walk which has taken nearly four years, we stand here at the culmination of a high school education.

We are still permeated by an immense fear, for we know that after the playing of "Pomp and Circumstance" we will have to give up our choice front row seats for the less desirable ones in the back of the room. Perhaps in the military, manual occupations, in commercial fields, or in colleges and universitites.

For all our education, we know but one thing, that is, we can and must not stand still.

We have come a long way, but there is still a long road before us.

We stand, tonight, at the commencement of that road.

We don't took at the size of the gravel stones, nor at the number of curves before us, rather we look straight ahead and say defiantly, "Give us the world as it is - and we will leave it better."

SHARRON HEROLD, Salutatorian

Another school year is at an end; students are eager for vacation and the majority of us, likewise, are eager to graduate. If a poll were taken you would probably find that there are very few 1963 Seniors who would actually like to remain in school. We, at this time, are not pausing to retrospect but attempting to envision the future, our future.

And yet how many times we have heard, "These are the best years of your life." And, "When you're gone you'll wish you were back in school." Are these the best years of our lives? I sincerely hope not. They've been learning, formative years, but not especially responsible ones. We've had most of our decisions made for us, most of our actions predetermined. This is not what I wish to remember as the best time during my finite days. No, there is a world to challenge and perhaps change. There are adult years ahead which beckon with promises of discovery. There would be nothing to look forward to if, in fact, these were our best years.

When we've taken our diplomas in hand and left Addison behind in the dust of memory should we wish ourselves back in school? I think not. Admittedly, we have much to learn from times gone by but the basic reason for the study of history is to gain understanding of the present and insight into the future, not to encourage living in the past. Earth is a progressive planet filled with inventive ambitious humans. To squarely face and solve daily problems and to perpetuate their individual accomplishments, these people have learned to live each day as it begins. So we must do by the full realization that in leaving one phase of our life behind we enter a road of no return.
